KONVERSI AGAMA DALAM KEHIDUPAN PERNIKAHAN

Rani Dwisaptani* dan Jenny Lukito Setiawan

ABSTRACT

This research aims to investigate factors and processes underlying religious conversion in marital life. The study adopts a qualitative method. The data were collected from three participants through semi-structured interviews. Results showed that religion conversion by the participants resulted from their desire to marry somebody having a different religion; the feeling of not meeting God in their former religion, which is related to the lack of religious values implanted early in life, and to life crises and conflicts.
